CSCI106N : Introduction to Computer Science

This course will examine fundamental aspects of computing such as the role of an operating systems, the history of computers, computer data representation and the stored program concept. The student is introduced to these concepts in order to form a foundation to be utilized and enhanced by other program related courses.
Class Hours 3
Lab Hours 0 Credits 3