

HIST265N : Latin American History From Independence to the Present

This course explores the history of Latin America and the Caribbean from 1800 to the present day. Discussion topics will include the 19th century nation-building, caudillismo, 20th century revolutions, modernization, cultural developments, Latin American relations with Europe and the United States, and recent trends. While the experiences of individual countries will be considered, the course will focus on larger political, economic, and social themes that shaped the entire region.

Credits 3

Prerequisites

ENGL101N or ENGL110N.