

HUMA230N : Ethics in the Workplace

An introductory study of classical and contemporary ethical philosophies and how these philosophies apply to current business practices. The course stresses analytical and problem-solving skills to comprehend the ethical dimensions of business relationships: employer to employee; managers to owners; manufacturers to consumers; and corporations to the environment.

Class Hours 3

Lab Hours 0

Credits 3

Prerequisites

ENGL101N or ENGL110N