

DATA105N : Data Mining

This course introduces techniques for discovering patterns and insights in data. Topics include clustering, classification, and association analysis. The connection between data mining techniques and machine learning and artificial intelligence will be examined. Students will practice applying these methods to real-world datasets and communicate findings effectively.

Class Hours 2

Lab Hours 2

Credits 3