

GEOG110N : World Regional Geography

This survey course provides students with an understanding of contemporary issues through a spatial, specifically regional, context. World Cultures including political, economic, historical, and societal issues are emphasized and connected to their physical environment. Geographical models and principles are also examined.

Class Hours 3

Lab Hours 0

Credits 3